HPE Hiring experience

HPE Hiring process consists of 4 rounds:

1) Written test
2) Technical interview
3) HR round
4) MR round

1) Written test
Level of written test was above average or was better than other companies coming to campus.
Exam consists of 50 questions divided into
Technical (Mainly from O.S, Networking, C)
Aptitude (Quants + Verbal)

Few good things which makes it easier are:
No negative marking was there.
No coding questions. All questions were objective.

They selected some 50 students for further rounds, rest were eliminated.

2) Technical round
So my technical interview round lasted for 1.5 hrs and it's the longest interview that I have ever faced. Usually other companies that visit campus takes half hour technical interview on an average.
HPE mainly focuses on core Computer science subjects specially Operating System and Networking. Questions will be more based on practical concepts rather then bookish knowledge.
Rest questions will be from your resume like questions about projects and questions from your preferred language and obviously Data structures.
They will surely ask you to share screen and implement few coding questions in your preferred language.

3) Managerial Round
Now once you have clear technical round then the journey is much easier.
Most of the question in managerial round revolve around normal things like plan for higher studies, your comfort with in relocating and few more things to know your mindset basically.
It lasts hardly for 15 min.

4) HR round
This was also simple round and normal discussion about yourself, hobbies and few more normal questions.
But they asked few questions like CEO of HPE and few other companies.
This also last for around 15 min.

Aman Gupta
8CSA